EDU 5419 – Advanced Study in Organizational Theory
Spring 2016
Rory Manning, Ed.D.

REFLECTION

Course Description:

“Advanced Study in Organizational Theory covers major strands of organization theory with application to education, including organizational structure, resource dependence, strategy, symbols, institutional theory, organizational culture, socialization, leadership and decision making.”

In this course, our cohort investigated organizational structure and theory, specifically in education, leading to the selection of theoretical and conceptual frameworks that helped to provide the scaffolding for our Chapter Two: The Literature Review, and supported our individual dissertation topics.
